PRESIDENT GOT MAIN THINGS HE ASKED CONGRESS

Survey Shows Mr. Hoover Victorious In Majority Of Tilt

Washington, July 23—(AP)—While Congress in its session just adjourned saw enactment of a great many reconstruction measures it will have before it when it returns in December still other proposals designed to better business conditions.

The lawmakers accepted a good number of President Hoover's recommendations intended toward this end, but at the same time they wrote into the nation's statutes a good many of their own.

Added to this list of new statutes was the Home-Loan Bank measure which President Hoover signed into law yesterday. It contained many of the features the Chief Executive recommended last December, but in it too, was the Glass currency expansion rider Congress added, but to which he objected.

In a statement, the President said he did not think that the rider "is such as would warrant refusal to approve the measure which means so much to hundreds of thousands of home owners, is such a contribution to their relief, such a contribution to establishment of home ownership, and such an aid to industry's increase in employment."

Must Name Board
The bill makes possible establishment of eight to twelve federal banks to make loans to home owners who can not get the money elsewhere and to building and loan associations, saving banks, homestead associations and insurance companies. Preliminary work toward the new system can begin when the President names the five men who are to constitute the Federal Home Loan board.

The President's recommendations last December 8 and what Congress—excluding the Democratic house—did about them line up like this: Mr. Hoover asked more money for Federal Land Banks; Congress voted $125,000,000.

He proposed increased taxes; Congress passed a measure to raise $1,118,500,000.

Got Finance Corp.
He wanted the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Congress established it with a $3,800,000,000 fund.

He asked economy; Congress voted to cut expenditures $150,000,000 by a special bill and the Senate set up a committee to study the question of saving the summer; all appropriations were reduced under the budget estimates.

He wanted to make more paper eligible for discount by Federal Reserve Banks; the bill sponsored by two Democrats—Senator Glass of Virginia and Representative Steagall of Alabama—did that.

He asked rejection of the dollar; direct gifts by the federal government to individuals were not approved.

He suggested the use of Federal Reserve funds to liberate funds in failed banks; Congress did not grant that although the House passed a bill to guaranty deposits in national banks.

No Tariff Changes
He wanted to avoid a general tariff revision; no general revision was attempted but Democrats sent to him for a veto their bill for changes.

He proposed changes in railroad laws; several measures to that end are pending in both houses.

He sought adjustment of anti-trust laws to remove injustices; Congress has not granted that.

He urged additional federal regulation of interstate power transmission; Congress failed to act.

He opposed additional veterans expenditures; Congress approved a bill to liberate bonus certificate payments but turned down cash payment of the bonus and set up a special committee to study veterans benefits during the recess.

He wanted a general overhaul of banking laws; the Glass bill pending in the Senate is drawn to accomplish that purpose.

He sought authority to consolidate governmental activities; limited power to do that was granted in the economy bill.

Killed Daughter, Baby And Himself

Belleville, Ill., July 22—(AP)—John Kerchner, 63, beat his step-daughter Mrs. Virginia Bennett, 14, and her 4-year-old son, Charles, Jr., to death with a pipe early today and then killed himself with a pistol.

After killing the two, Kerchner started after his wife, Olivia, but she ran and screamed. He then committed suicide.

Relatives could give no reason for the attack except that apparently he had been crazed by the heat. They said he had been complaining of the last week.

Prior to the attack, Kerchner had been reading the Bible, and had marked the verse in the book of John, which read: "Whoever killeth thee, will think that he doeth God service."

When a tornado struck this vicinity in 1896, Kerchner was blown from a bridge across the Mississippi river to an island three miles south, or three weeks before he was found. It was thought he had been killed.

Urgent Call Is Made For Foods For Local Pantry

An urgent call was sent out today by the Dixon Welfare Association and the Paul Rader Pantry at the Assembly Park for donations of foodstuffs for canning at the pantry. A special plea is made to farmers and gardeners who at this time undoubtedly have much produce going to waste, which if prepared and canned now will aid greatly in preventing hundreds of citizens of America from starving next winter. Beans, carrots, corn, etc., which are now going to waste on scores of farms in Lee county can be put to a great humanitarian use now, and may do much to forestall outbreaks of discontent among the needy of the country next winter.

Part Remains Here
Of the first 20,000 cans of foodstuffs prepared at the Rader Pantry at the Assembly Park, 10,000 cans will remain for distribution among Lee county's needy, while the remainder will be taken to the Chicago Pantry for distribution by the Rader organization, among the thousands of that city who will face actual starvation next winter if they are not given outside help.

The canning is all done under the direction of an expert in home economics from the Rader organization, on equipment donated by various interests and by workers supplied from Dixon's unemployed by the welfare organization.

Will Call For Food
Any farmer who has surplus material for canning which he wishes to donate to the great work of relieving human hunger may deliver such to the Assembly Park hotel any day, or if he finds it impossible to deliver his contribution a call to the hotel, phone 183, will result in the material being called for.

NEW ORDERS TO EVACUATE SENT BONUS SEEKERS

Government Fixes Midnight Monday As New Time Expiration

Washington, July 23—(AP)—The government today served official notice on members of the bonus army encampment along and near Pennsylvania Avenue that the area must be evacuated by Monday midnight.

The order was drawn by the Treasury Department and served on the leaders of the veterans by a departmental attorney. It also covered a small area near the Agriculture Department now occupied by John Pace, or Detroit, and his life wing followers.

By the issuance of the order, officials said, the occupants of the areas were placed in the position of being trespassers on federal property if they refused to move. Treasury and police officials have made two previous moves to oust the ex-soldiers, but have not enforced the orders.

Lieutenant Colonel U. S. Grant, 3rd, Director of Public Buildings and Parks in the District of Columbia, today said he had not issued orders directly to the veterans to evacuate camps on federal parks.

However, he had asked the District of Columbia Commissioners to have the land vacated but so far has not received notification of any action by them.

In New Minor War.

The Capital's bonus seekers today found themselves in a new minor war—one started by opposing leaders who could not agree over whether their followers should leave town.

Walter W. Waters, elected Commander in Chief of the bonus expeditionary forces, said they should stay. His insistence brought temporary withdrawal yesterday of a police order that the veterans should evacuate government property on Pennsylvania Avenue between the White House and Capitol.

But Roy W. Robertson, leader of the California contingent that refused to ally itself with Waters after leading the recent march on Capitol Hill, said he expected to have all his men out of town by tomorrow night.

"These men know there is nothing to stay here except to see Waters strut around with new boots on and a new black cane to swagger with," Robertson said.

Some of Robertson's followers today joined the line seeking loans from the Veterans Administration for transportation back home. About 5,000 already had gotten money.

Mrs. Walter Levi Called In Aurora

Mrs. Walter C. Levi passed away at her home 580 Fox street, Aurora last evening at 8:30, her death ending a lingering illness. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mary Frances and a son, Michael James, at home; her mother, Mrs. Rose Kelly of this city and five brothers, Michael, Phillip, Paul and William of this city and James J. Kelly of Freeport. She was united in marriage to Walter C. Levi in Dixon, September 3, 1917, and had made her home in Aurora since that time. Funeral services will be conducted from St. Mary's Church at Aurora Monday morning at 8:30 the body being brought overland to Dixon, where interment will be made in Oakwood.

Conviction Of Four Rockfordites Upheld

Chicago, July 23—(AP)—The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld today the convictions of four leaders of a Rockford, Ill., prohibition conspiracy and confirmed their sentences of two years in Leavenworth penitentiary and $10,000 fines each.

The defendants were Sam Capriola, Louis Dodaro, John Walsh and William D'Agostin. They were charged with wholesale violations of the prohibition act in 109 separate offenses from 1927 to 1930. The indictment named 55 other defendants. Thirty-six have been convicted, 16 dismissed by the government and seven acquitted.

Bird Raised Her Family On A Car

A traveling bird's nest, with a mother sparrow on part-time duty, is reported in the Illinois Central Magazine for July. R. C. Jarnagin, Illinois Central System agent at Starkville, Miss., tells how a passenger coach on a Mobile & Ohio train operated out of Starkville twice a day served as a site on which the bird built her nest, laid her eggs and hatched and reared three young sparrows. The young birds had a train ride of forty-four miles every day, with their mother awaiting them near the Starkville station.

YANKEES LEAD GERMANS FOR CUP CHALLENGE

Allison And Van Ryn Win Tennis Doubles At Paris Today

State Roland Garros, Paris, July 23—(AP)—The United States today won the doubles match to take a lead of two to one over Germany in the interzone final of Davis Cup play, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn defeating Daniel Prenn and Gottfried von Cramm 6-3, 6-4, 6-1.

The American combination, veterans of the Davis Cup campaigns, held the upper hand throughout except for one game in the second set when the Germans led 3-2, and sent the United States into the final two singles matches favored to win and challenge France for the trophy.

Brilliant individually and masters of double strategy, Allison and Van Ryn yielded only eight games in the match and became stronger as the match continued. After losing the first game of the third set they won six straight to end the contest.

The match required only 40 minutes to play and necessitated the scheduling of an exhibition contest to give the crowd some entertainment.

The Germans, both of whom played singles yesterday, showed the effects of their hard matches. Von Cramm never had a chance to make his cunning net game effective and the gymnastics of Prenn availed little against the Americans who held the court like a fort and played fine tennis throughout.

Shorts For Tennis Upheld By Court

Chicago, July 23—(AP)—Irving Park authorities are going to carry on the battle of the shorts.

Informed by Judge M. A. Kav-anagh yesterday that their ideas of the proper costumes for girl athletes on the park's recreation ground were two decades behind the times, the park's attorney announced an appeal would be taken. The court upheld the contention of Nona Thome, 20, and Ruth Smutny, 18, that their choice of the knee length bifurcated garment for tennis playing was proper and decent.

After Miss Thome appeared as a witness in the controverted apparel the judge announced:

"Many might have been excited by the sight of this costume in 1910. Since then the world's ideas of modesty have taken a new color and no one is offended by such a costume these days."

Wife Of Rev. A. D. Shaffer Is Called

Mrs. A. D. Shaffer, wife of Rev. A. D. Shaffer, pastor of the Grace Evangelical church, passed away at her home, 213 East Chamberlain street, last evening at 6 o'clock following a stroke she suffered yesterday afternoon about 2:30. Funeral services will be conducted Monday afternoon at 1:45 from the home and at 2 o'clock from the Grace Evangelical church. Rev. J. G. Eller of Freeport officiating, and with interment in Riverside cemetery at Sterling.

The deceased is survived by her husband, one son, Everett of Stockton; her mother, Mrs. John Senneff of Sterling; one sister, Miss Bertha Senneff of Sterling, and two brothers, George of Davenport, Iowa, and Earl of San Francisco, Calif. The obituary will be published later.

Former Banker Is Guilty Of Murder

Marion, Ill., July 23—(AP)—George Gaum, 54-year-old former Johnston City banker and merchant, was found guilty last night of murdering his son-in-law, Owen Stille, and was sentenced to forty-five years imprisonment.

Gaum's conviction came on the third ballot, after the first had stood 11 to 1 for life imprisonment. Pending a motion for a new trial which will be held next week, Gaum is at liberty on his original bond.

Gaum's only daughter, Mrs. Mary Stille, who was the only witness of the shooting in her home last Jan. 7, was the principal witness of the state.

The former banker contended he shot Stille in self defense.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY ACTIVE IN INVESTIGATION OF HOW SMITH REYNOLDS MET DEATH

Winston Salem, N. C., July 23—(AP)—The Twin City Sentinel carries today the office of Solicitor Carlisle Higgins is definitely behind an investigation into the fatal shooting two weeks ago of Smith Reynolds, heir to the tobacco millions and husband of Libby Holman, New York theatrical star. Higgins recently issued a statement that his office was not participating in an investigation since under the North Carolina law the burden of such a probe would fall on Sheriff Transou Scott. Despite this, the Sentinel says it learns that J. Eric McMichael, chief aide to Higgins, is daily advising with Sheriff Scott as he pushed his search for clues that may reveal how and why the young millionaire was shot.

Scott has been actively investigating the case since the morning young Reynolds was found on a sleeping porch of his home here dying of a bullet wound.

Whether the investigators are making progress could not be learned, the sentinel said.

Yesterday Sheriff Scott made a trip to Roanoke, Va., in connection with the case. He was silent about it today, but other sources said it was unproductive of results.

Famous Stage Producer Died In West Last Eve

FLORENZ ZIEGFELD

Heart attack, brought on by lung congestion from which he was thought to be recovering, caused the sudden death at Hollywood last night of Florenz Ziegfeld, producer of many successful "Follies," which gained for him the appellation, "Glorifier of the American Girl."

BODY OF THIRD DEGREE VICTIM TO BE EXHUMED

The Grand Jury Indicted All Thirteen Of Accused Men

Mineola, N. Y., July 23—(AP)—An order to exhume the body of Hyman Stark, third degree victim was made out at the District Attorney's office today.

At the same time it was definitely learned that the grand jury which returned sealed bills last night indicted all 13 policemen arrested in connection with Stark's death, but did indict all of them as charged on the warrants on which they were arrested.

The warrants charged four with second degree murder, seven with second degree assault, one with neglect of duty and being an accessory to a second degree murder and one with conspiracy to obstruct justice, the latter charge applying to all the other policemen, also.

No Second Degree
The grand jury, however, disregarded the second degree murder charges. It indicted five for first degree manslaughter, seven for second degree assault and one as an accessory to first degree manslaughter.

There was considerable secrecy about the reason for exhuming the body of Stark, which was buried on Staten Island after an autopsy had been performed which showed he had suffered numerous contusions, apparently inflicted by a rubber hose, and that his Adam's Apple had been fractured.

Trial of the policemen was set for August 15, but it was expected the defense would demand a postponement and move for separation of the trials of the defendants under different charges.

RADIO EXPERT DEAD

Hamilton, Bermuda, July 23—(AP)—Professor Reginald Aubrey Fessenden, a pioneer in the development of the radio telephone, died yesterday of heart disease. He was 65.

Among his achievements were the invention of the radio compass, the electrically-driven battleship and numerous safety devices for submarines.

NOT "THE" JACK

Houston—There was quite a crowd in Justice Ray's court for the news had gone around that Jack Johnson was to be there. The name of the old colored fighter was still a drawing card, even in a court room. But it wasn't THE Jack Johnson. It was just a poor Negro boy by the same name who had been hauled into court by his wife on a charge of deserting his children.

'GLORIFIER OF AMERICAN GIRL' DIED SUDDENLY

Had Appeared To Be Recovering From Illness When Taken

BULLETIN

Chicago, July 23—(AP)—Florenz Ziegfeld's mother was near death today—so near that relatives could not tell her of the death of her son.

For days Mrs. Florenz Ziegfeld, 81, has been in a state of coma, brought on by old age and infirmities. She is 83 years old.

She has not recognized members of the family at her bedside for two weeks. A daughter-in-law, Mrs. Carl Ziegfeld, said today the elderly woman would not be told of the producer's death, even if she recovered sufficiently to understand. Physicians said Mrs. Ziegfeld can live only a short time.

Hollywood, July 23—(AP)—Florenz Ziegfeld, "The Glorifier of the American Girl," has come to a sudden death when thought recovering from a lung congestion.

The originator of the Ziegfeld Follies died of a heart attack at 10:31 P. M. last night in a hospital while his wife, Billie Burke, was rushing from a motion picture studio where she was working. She arrived at his bedside, still in make-up, two minutes after his death.

Patricia Ziegfeld, daughter of the 64-year-old producer and his actress wife, was at the palatial home in Santa Monica which Ziegfeld had leased for his Southern California visit. She reached the

WARM WEATHER TO RETURN FOR WEEK END STAY

Respice To Be Short-Lived Weatherman Predicts Today

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Near-normal July weather was resumed today on a large scale but fatalities continued undiminished. Rains concluded their eastward journey last night, bathing most of the seaboard and lowering temperatures to the eighties. Thermometers in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas, only recently subsided, began to rise again but week-end prospects generally were for fair, warm weather typical of current calendars.

Nearly 30 persons died of heat, however, seven in Wisconsin, six in St. Louis, four in Pennsylvania, three in Nebraska, and two in West Virginia and Michigan. A dozen others drowned in lakes and streams.

Low reported no fatalities for the first time in 12 days. St. Paul and Minneapolis, after ten consecutive days of 90-degree heat for a 22-year record, had a cool 75.

Exceptions were Fayetteville, N. C., with a reading of 105.5 degrees, Salina, Kan. and Charlotte, N. C., with 100, and Phoenix, customarily hot, with 112. It was 99 in Frederick, Md., 98 in Lincoln, Neb., 96 in Kansas City, 95 in Des Moines and Washington, and 94 in Dallas.

The death of Ziegfeld ended his plan to bring his Follies to Los Angeles during the Olympic games. Reports also were that Ziegfeld contemplated producing a picture in Hollywood. Miss Burke recently said she hoped it would be possible for her husband to retire to a California farm.

Friends said funeral services probably will be held in Los Angeles.

Native Of Chicago
Ziegfeld was born in Chicago on March 21, 1868. He made his debut at the age of 13 years, and in his career was reputed to have amassed a fortune. His first venture into the show business was with Buffalo Bill's shows. His parents objected to this and he left the show to become general manager and director of the Chicago Musical College, of which his father was conductor.

During the World's Fair in Chicago in 1892 he gained his first experience as an impresario. His first important step in the producing world came when he introduced Anna Held to America a few years later. In 1907 he became identified with his Follies. So great was his care in selecting the beautiful girls for these shows that this feature soon became a watchword among theater goers.

RULE BY LOVE, NOT FEAR
THE real man is a witness of God. Then let all our communications reflect this true witnessing to God. This should be the standard of conversation, its purpose and its meaning.

"Speak gently, it is better far To rule by love than fear; Speak gently; let no harsh word mar The good we may do here."

"Speak gently it is a little thing, Dropped in the heart's deep well; The good, the joy, that it may bring, Eternity shall tell."

Pfeifer-Minard Wedding Wednesday

The marriage of Miss Ruth Minard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Minard of Earlville, to Willard Pfeifer, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Pfeifer of Mendota took place Wednesday afternoon, July 20, 1932, at 2:30 o'clock at the Immanuel Lutheran church at Aurora.

Both young people are well known in Dixon.

The Reverend C. J. Prieke, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, using the single ring service. Miss Ila Handley of Earlville was the maid of honor and Wilbur Wolfe of Mendota was the best man.

The bride wore a gown of white silk crepe with white accessories and carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Handley also wore white and carried pink roses. Following the ceremony a dinner was served at the Elite. The guests at the wedding and dinner included Mr. and Mrs. Minard and Mr. and Mrs. Pfeifer, parents of the bride and groom.

Directions to Grass Lake Lotus Gardens

The Grass Lake Lotus beds have begun to bloom and there is quite a display of these beautiful flowers. They will continue to bloom until about the first week in September.

There is much discussion as to whether or not these are real lotus or a special variety of water lilies. It is said that Grass lake contains real lotus and that these lotus are to be found in but two other places in the world, Egypt and China.

Thousands of persons visit the lotus beds each year, coming for many miles in every direction. Local parties wishing to visit the bed will find several good motor routes. One way to go is to motor to St. Charles and then take route 490 up the Fox river valley to near Richmond which is not far from the lake.

Meeting of Palmyra Home Bureau Unit

The Palmyra Unit of the Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Frank Scholl, Monday afternoon. After the usual business meeting, Mrs. Syverud gave the lesson "Salad and Salad Dressings" and gave many recipes for making them.

The ladies were pleased with these recipes, for now is the time to have these cool, refreshing salads.

The meeting then adjourned to meet with Mrs. Verne Straw in August.

Visited Gardens in And Around Ashton

The Ashton Woman's Club spent Wednesday afternoon visiting flower gardens in and about Ashton. Ten gardens were visited during the afternoon.

At three homes the ladies were served iced drinks which were very refreshing. In spite of the heat the ladies declared it an afternoon well spent and are all ready for another such afternoon of pleasure.

1-8 teaspoon white pepper.
2 cups boiling water.
2 bouillon cubes (chicken or any other strained meat broth at hand)
2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
1-4 cup cold water
Put tomatoes, onion, bay leaf and sugar in saucepan and cook twenty minutes. Then strain and add broth. Season with salt, and pepper and add gelatin which has been softened in cold water for five minutes. Stir until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved and pour into a square shallow pan which has been dipped in cold water. Let stand on ice for several hours or over night to chill and become firm. When ready to serve, cut in small cubes or break into pieces with a fork. Pile in bouillon cups and garnish with paper-thin slices of lemon dipped in minced parsley. If you like whipped cream the bouillon may be garnished with slightly salted whipped cream sprinkled with minced parsley.

Cheese Roll
This roll is delicious for Supper in the annual semi-annual day night supper with brown bread or toasted crackers. You may like it for simple evening refreshments with coffee.

One half pound cream cheese
4 tablespoons Roquefort cheese
2 tablespoons finely minced olives
1 tablespoon finely chopped green pepper
1 minced canned pimiento
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1-2 teaspoon paprika
4 tablespoons butter
1-2 cup chopped nut meats
Cottage cheese can be used in place of cream if more convenient. Use 1 cup cottage cheese. Mix all ingredients except nuts. Shape in a roll about 2 inches in diameter and roll in nuts. Chill for several hours and serve on a platter with a garnish of sprigs of parsley.

Stuffed Tomato on Toast
4 large ripe tomatoes
1 cup cooked rice
1 cup diced American cheese
1 up rich milk
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
4 rounds toast
Scop out the inside of tomatoes and sprinkle with salt. Invert and let stand in refrigerator for half an hour. Fill with well seasoned rice and bake in a hot oven for twenty minutes. Arrange rounds of toast on a hot platter and put a tomato on each round.

Relieving Touches Are Necessary to Final Effect of a Dress

BY JEAN PATOU
Written for NEA Service

Paris—You will notice that for midsummer wear, whatever category of dress is concerned, there will always be some note introduced to lighten the final effect and, whatever the nature of the fabric employed, the dress has to possess a certain degree of softness and lightness.

Equilibrium is a factor which has to be very carefully studied in the process of creating a dress, but especially so in midsummer frocks. It is a quality which stamps a dress immediately a creation or just a mere garment.

Perfect Balance

The light and soft touch needs to be particularly carefully equilibrated in the sheer midsummer dress which, after all, is lightness itself. It must also show perfect balance in the final ensemble as well as in details. Here the accessory, more than with any other type of dress, must be made to appear as forming part of the whole and not a mere addition. See how in a frilled summer model all proportions have to be taken into consideration, both those of the dress and its accessories.

I have always maintained that even the semi-tailored type of dress needs some light touch, usually at the neck and sleeves. In this case, the touch of lingerie or lace generally used to convey that crisp and fresh look to the model is carried through to the white hat. The latter, combined with the lingerie, is quite sufficient to impart to the ensemble the light, summery note desired.

Harmony Essential
While a wool dress can perfectly well be form-fitted and unrelieved by any fantasy, no evening dress can afford to dispense with this softening touch.

You realize how important a point this is when, for example, you see a volant placed at the wrong angle. This in itself is enough to destroy the harmony of the dress. The same is true of fulness. Too much or too little can spell disaster and failure in a model.

The transparent picture hat is an ideal complement and offers a perfect balance to the light summer dress. In cases where less sheer fabric than chiffon is preferred, then the various accessories, including of course the hat, can convey to the ensemble that touch of lightness necessary provided they are in perfect harmony.

Scarf Is Important

I think the scarf is a perfect accessory and one which, more than any other feature, seems to form part of the dress. Employed as it is this season it represents, as a

The estate comprises 4700 acres. About 32 years ago, Col. Lowden started his pine forest by planting each year approximately fifty thousand pine trees. This he continued doing for ten years. Among this number the most promising were left standing, with the result today of a magnificent pine forest of half a million pine trees of various varieties.

A large and attractive house built on an incline commands perhaps, the loveliest view, which includes Rock River, many times called the Hudson of the West. Far away, one sees a few small islands, then the rocky banks and other charming glimpses of cultivated fields so beautiful at this particular season. Again you turn to look upon a bluff of considerable size. It is lovely, covered with pines and other vegetation—to the very edge where flows the peaceful waters of the beloved Rock River.

There were guests present at the party from Freeport, Polo, Rockford, Oregon and Dixon.

There were ten prizes for bridge donated by merchants from different cities. Mrs. Harry Warner, Mrs. W. A. McNichols, and Mrs. John Haines of Dixon, each received a prize.

Mrs. Lowden and her daughters, Mrs. Drake and Mrs. Madelene, did much for the comfort and pleasure of the guests.

The following from Dixon were seen either playing bridge or wandering over the lawn—Mrs. H. C. Warner, Miss Myra Alice Warner, Mrs. W. J. Sullivan, Mrs. C. R. Walgreen, Mrs. Adolph Eichler, Mrs. Will Ware, Mrs. E. C. Risley, Mrs. F. X. Newcomer, Mrs. Geo. Van Houten, Mrs. John Haines, Mrs. A. H. Lancaster, Mrs. Herman Rasch, Mrs. Z. W. Moss, Mrs. Warren G. Friday afternoon the Oregon Woman's Club entertained with bridge on the spacious Sinnissippi lawn, the country home of Col. and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden.

Between 350 and 400 tickets were sold, the proceeds going to the Oregon Woman's Club, a most delightful way of increasing the treasury funds. The tables were grouped near the house and extended to the most remote corners of the lawn.

Sinnissippi is one of the beauty spots of Illinois. Once we heard the noted sculptor, Lorado Taft, remark that Illinois was the most beautiful state in the union, and it would seem the Lowden family had the good fortune and judgment to select this glorious place.

matter of fact, a necessary feature. When, for instance, you have a neckline rather too bare or too severe for a silk dress, the scarf will adjust itself in a less banal way than any other trimming.

It also is an adequate alternative for a fur neckpiece. In very hot weather and adds further to the personality of the dress, for no two women will be found to wear a scarf in the same manner.

Maurice Says Its Incompatibility of Temperament

Paris, July 23.—(AP)—"It's just a question of incompatibility of temperament," Maurice Chevalier, French movie star, told the Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune today, referring to his divorce proceedings begun yesterday against his wife Yvonne Vallee.

"It is untrue that Madame Chevalier refused to live with me after my return from the United States," he said. "It is just a question of incompatibility of temperament."

"There is no use trying to make a tragedy of our divorce proceedings. We are still the best of friends and respect each other highly."

"I hope the affair can be settled without disagreeable incidents. We remain friends, but life together has become impossible. Should we attempt to continue together another two years we would surely become enemies."

"I do not love anyone else and have no matrimonial plans."

Chevalier returned from Hollywood less than a month ago. His wife used to be his partner in the old days in the Paris music palaces, long before he won fame in the movies.

Sterling Girls Won Rotary Camp Honors

Janice Ryan, daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Frank Ryan, 1120 Woodlawn avenue, and Dorothy Ann Kidd of Sterling were the girls chosen as the best campers at the annual ten-day outing sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. at Camp Rotary it was made known yesterday when the girls returned home.

Miss Ryan won honors among the older girls and Miss Kidd was winner among the younger girls. The campers numbered about ninety-five in all, and were in charge of a staff of fifteen counselors. The Misses Elizabeth Ann Blaisdell and Margery Gates were co-directors of the camp.

A hundred or more visitors were at camp Thursday evening for the final campfire when a pageant written by Odabeth Lull of Beloit and Norma Olson was presented and displays of camp handicraft were exhibited.

A REVIVAL OF NATIONAL SPIRIT.

One of the most interesting things about the current demand for economy in government is the way in which numerous small cities reacted to the recent congressional proposal for an extensive postoffice building campaign.

In the old days the "pork barrel" bill was always a sure-fire hit. It got through Congress over and over again because each congressman wanted to make the folks back home think that he was a big shot, and the easiest way to do it was by getting an elaborate postoffice building put up in some town in his district.

In the aggregate, this was always horribly expensive; but such bills almost got through because the separate districts always thought more of their own hit of pork than they did of the federal budget.

This year, however, things are different. There is, for example, the state of Missouri.

The proposal in the House of Representatives would have given new postoffices to 17 northwestern Missouri towns. But it wasn't long before the people in these towns began to object violently. They would like new buildings very much, but they would prefer to see Uncle Sam practice a little rigid economy. So most of them let their representatives know in unmistakable terms that the pork barrel would make no friends back home this year.

Nor was this phenomenon peculiar to Missouri. It happened in many other parts of the country, in many, many towns. A great many congressmen who thought they were about to make themselves solid with their constituents discovered overnight that they had guessed wrong.

All of this, when you stop to think about it, is very encouraging to a believer in democracy.

One of the things that his kept democracy from functioning as well as it might in the United States has been the triumph of the sectional viewpoint. Too many congressmen have tackled all problems from the local angle and have let the national angle go hang. What we are witnessing now is a revival of the national spirit. It restores one's faith in the republic's integrity.

COMMON SENSE ON REPARATIONS.

At the time the Treaty of Versailles was signed, the allies talked of forcing Germany to pay reparations of $64,000,000,000.

A conference in 1920 scaled this down to $31,500,000,000. In 1924 the Dawes committee, refusing to commit itself as to the grand total, ruled that Germany must pay $595,000,000 a year. The Young plan, in 1928, set the total at $26,500,000,000 and gave Germany until 1988 to pay in full.

Now, with the reparations conference finally reaching agreement, the German delegates have agreed that their nation shall pay just $750,000,000—and the allied nations are glad they can get that much.

The steady shrinkage of these figures represents a number of processes that have been active in the world since the war.

For one thing, it represents the steady decline in Germany's economic health. A nation that was willing, 12 years ago, to sign an I. O. U. for more than 30 billions now insists that $750,000,000 is the limit of its capacity to pay. To be sure, Germany signed the first agreement under duress; yet the contrast between Germany's armed force and that of her former enemies is just about as great now as it was in 1920.

For another thing, the dwindling of these figures represents a return to sanity on the part of the nations of Europe.

The original figures were simply fantastic. No unprejudiced economist ever supposed such sums would or could be paid; the statesmen who insisted that they would were simply kidding folks back home. That the allies are now willing to take $750,000,000 where they once talked of 30 billions indicates that common sense is about to have its day.

Lastly, the whole affair shows how the world has steadily drawn away from the insane hatreds of the first post-war years. In those days no penalty on Germany could be too high, for Germany was a race of international criminals. Today, it is realized that Europe cannot recover unless Germany recovers. No enduring peace could be built while the first emotional state prevailed. Its departure gives one much hope for the future.

CREATIVE URGE IS BAD, IF YOU CAN'T SWING IT

In "Wind Before Dawn," Lois Montross discusses the disastrous things that can happen when a perfectly ordinary woman gets the notion that what she needs is a lot of self-expression and freedom.

She writes of a college professor, Stuart Patmore, and his wife, Averil, who is fragile, refined, aloof, her husband has always taken it for granted that she is made of finer clay than he, and when she gets pumped full of nonsense about the creative urge by a woman acquaintance, he lets her have her own way.

Averil, hitherto a dutiful wife and a competent mother, proceeds to smash all the china. She discovers that life in the quiet university town is stifling her. She discovers that her husband—a heavy, likeable, capable chap full of a fine gusto for living—is cross, vulgar and a little stupid. She concludes that she owes it to herself to leave him, head for Greenwich Village and go in for self-expression in a whole-souled way.

So she does it. Eventually she divorces him. She travels abroad, she lectures before women's clubs, she becomes excessively tart.

Professor Patmore, meanwhile, has to grin and bear it. Unfortunately, he happens to be sincerely in love with his wife, and it takes him a few years to get straightened out. Eventually, you'll be glad to know he finds someone else who is cut more to his pattern, while empty-headed Averil winds up directly back of the eight ball.

Miss Montross has written an interesting and thoughtful story.

HOHENZOLLERN COUP HINTED IN BERLIN AS KAISER'S JUNKERS TAKE CONTROL

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Editor

Berlin—Will Germany pass under a stern military dictatorship under Chancellor Frank von Papen like that of Mussolini in Italy? Is the way being paved, 14 years after Kaiser Wilhelm's overthrow, for restoration of the monarchy and the return of the Hohenzollern royal line to the throne?

Has Adolf Hitler, the former house painter, at last triumphed by secret agreement with the monarchists in his long fight to gain control of the government with his ultra-patriotic Nazi party?

Or will Germany, like Russia, sink into the welter of Communism which has shown big gains in recent elections and which has brought about the present crisis in the Fatherland?

The German people bid fair to indicate their answer to these questions by their vote in the elections of the Reichstag (German Parliament) on Sunday July 31, unless Chancellor von Papen should call off the elections. For there are plenty of parties of all political hues in the field, though the main fight is between Hitler's fire-eating Nazis and the growing Communists. Repeated pre-election clashes between the Hitlerites and the Communists have been marked by much bloodshed.

The most puzzling factor in the highly complicated situation is the role that Hitler plays. He and his Nazi followers are out to capture a clear majority in the German Reichstag. Failing in this, they hope to become the dominant party.

Hard times, unemployment and resentment over reparations paid to France have greatly increased Hitler's following in the past few years. The Nazis have gained at the expense of the older "right wing" parties; at the other end of the scale, the communists have recently won thousands of votes from the less radical Socialists.

It seems doubtful that Hitler's Nazis will be able to get a majority in the Reichstag, but if the Nationalists and other conservative and anti-Republican forces join them, the Nazis can rule that body.

Then assuming that Hitler could bring his allies to support him, he would have the right to demand that President Hindenburg call upon him and his friends to form a new cabinet. This doubtless would mean that Hitler himself would be the new Chancellor of Germany.

But there is a big and mysterious "if" in all this. That "if" is General Von Schleicher, minister of defense in the present cabinet of Chancellor Von Papen. Von Schleicher is the real power behind the scenes, being closely allied with President Von Hindenburg. Germany's junker nobles and the great industrialists.

Von Schleicher rose to power some weeks ago when President von Hindenburg suddenly forced out Chancellor Bruening of the Catholic Centre party, and substituted Captain von Papen, chiefly known to fame as the German military attaché at Washington, who was boosted out of the office of States by President Wilson because he fomented violations of American neutrality in 1917.

Von Papen lost no time in forming a cabinet composed entirely of junker nobles—"The Cabinet of the Monocled Barons," as it has been called and soon General Von Schleicher emerged as the new minister of defense and the power behind the throne. It was known that, though a friend of the old nobility and the rich industrialists, he had had many intimate talks with Hitler.

Immediately Germany was filled with wild rumors. It was said the so-called national government of von Papen was designed to overthrow parliamentary government, that President Hindenburg would resign and that ex-Crown Prince William Hohenzollern would succeed him as a preliminary step to the restoration of the Hohenzollern monarchy. All this was denied.

Emphatically, General Von Schleicher declared the new government was not warning chairs for anybody that it expected to hold office for four years. Since the new government has no party of its own, this cryptic statement has led many to believe that it contemplates some sort of alliance with Hitler's rapidly-growing party.

Action of the new government in rescinding the old ban against Hitler's brown-shirt parades lends strength to this belief. Moreover, Nazi newspapers have issued all kinds of political threats and escaped suppression, whereas the government has suppressed Socialist and Centre newspapers for much less.

The big mystery in the puzzle is this: Does the Von Papen government expect to step aside and make place for a Nazi government by Hitler? If not, how can it avoid being forced out?

Those who know Von Schleicher best expect him, by some means, to ditch Hitler and his crowd. He comes from a line of junkers who ruled Germany for centuries, who have always felt themselves born to rule and the people born to obey. If Hitler should seize control of parliament, they can always get the president to dissolve parliament and rule without it. Or they can call for new elections and keep on dodging indefinitely.

In view of so many political complications and seeming contradictions, it is impossible to tell now what the future holds in store for Germany as the result of the Reichstag elections. It may be that Hitler is at last on the verge of attaining the power he has sought so long. It may be that the Prussian junkers and the rich industrialists, worried by the increasing strength of the Communists, are playing Hitler against the extreme radicals in a deep-eyed game, and are ready to drop him at the proper time.

Von Schleicher knows the answer—but he won't tell.

The Indians gathered 'round and smiled. To Duncy one of them said, "Child, you make a real fine Indian with those feathers on your head."

"And now that you have joined our race, we'll put some bright paint on your face. Right on your little cheek bones we will smear a real bright red."

They led him to a little tent and there inside they promptly went. There sat a little Indian maid. She jumped up to her feet.

"I'll gladly paint your face," said she. "You'll look as wake as a man be." And then she plied some blankets up and said, "Please have a seat."

It wasn't long till Duncy found that when the paint was smeared around it tickled and he had to laugh. "Be quiet," said the maid.

"You'll make me put the hues on wrong. Just sit real still. It won't take long. When all the other Times see you they will be afraid."

But she was wrong. The Tinymites had seen a lot of funny sights and when Duncy walked outside, they all laughed right out loud.

Said one, "My, what a funny face. Why, your small nose looks out of place." Then Duncy loudly shouted, "I'm an Indian and I'm proud."

"Let's see you do an Indian dance," cried Scouty. "Go on, take a chance!" And Duncy promptly started dancing all around the place.

The exercise soon made him puff and he exclaimed, "I've had enough. If you lads will wait here for me, I'll run and wash my face."

While they were waiting Windy cried, "Ah, I am going to have a ride! Here comes a baby camel and it's cute as it can be."

At first the camel seemed real

DAILY HEALTH

PLANTS AND MALARIA

Some of the most devastating diseases afflicting mankind are insect-borne.

Bubonic plague is transmitted by the rat fleas; typhus by the body louse; malaria and yellow fever by mosquitoes African sleeping sickness by the tsetse fly.

The insect becomes diseased when it draws blood from a diseased human or animal.

An interesting observation has been made and reported by Prof. Hans Ziemann of Berlin, who stated that in certain districts with apparently similar physical conditions and with similar mosquito prevalence, the amounts of malaria may be surprisingly different.

Prof. Ziemann believes that this difference in the prevalence of malaria in comparable swampy, mosquito infested sections, may be accounted for by the growth in some regions of certain types of plants.

Dr. D'Herville noticed, some 20 years ago, that in the Argentine the swamp and stream regions in which the leguminous plants, that is, the bean and pea variety of plant, were grown, malaria was practically unknown.

In certain of the islands of Holland malaria disappeared in 1890 when clover from the south of France was sown there. Some of Egypt is free from malaria and here, too, wild clover is widespread in all parts.

In explanation it is suggested that the flowers of the leguminous plants contain a substance known as coumarin. These plants flower during the summer and autumn, during the malaria season.

The female mosquito, the only one that sucks blood, may in lieu of blood suck the juices of these flowers and become cured by the coumarin contained in these juices, just as man is cured of malaria by the use of another vegetable extract—quinine.

There is in this observation a suggestion for ridding certain sections of malaria by planting the coumarin-containing plant of which there are at least eight different varieties.

LET US GET BACK TO FIRST PRINCIPLES

FOR AMERICA, the way out of present troubles is the road back to first principles—to courage, thrift and co-operation.

The broad trail of speculation and extravagance which led to 1929, has taken us far away from the pioneer qualities which made this nation rich and great.

Now we are returning to the safe road. With courage and faith—not fear—in our hearts, we are going to follow once more the old familiar ways of individual thrift and co-operation.

This cannot be an affair of the few only. Every citizen in every community should be in step with progress.

Back to first principles—to courage, thrift and co-operation!

FRANKLIN GROVE

By GRACE PEARL

FRANKLIN GROVE—Mr. and Mrs. James Lincoln had as their guests for supper Sunday night: Mrs. J. H. Engel, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Engeland son John and daughter Marian of Pensacola, Florida, Ted Gaver of St. Paul, Minn., and Mrs. William Knox of Chicago.

Misses Pauline Trostle and Lucille Buck were Saturday and Sunday visitors in Mr. Morris at the home of Miss Alice Emmert.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryland Kester of Lawton, Pr. Mr. and Mrs. Roland Lawton of Iowa, Pa., surprised their cousin, Mrs. F. D. Lahman Thursday night. They had been making a hurried business and pleasure trip through Ohio and Illinois as far west as Grinnell, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Martin arrived Saturday for a week's visit with relatives at this place.

Gilbert Spratt of Baraboo, Wis., visited friends here over the week end.

A very large crowd was in town again Saturday night to see the free motion pictures on main street. The business men of the town are putting on these shows that they may enjoy them.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hanks and children of New London, Iowa visited several days this week at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Graves.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Smith, Jr. visited in Dixon Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Brooks.

One of the largest crowds that has been on the camp grounds for years was there Sunday afternoon to hear the famous Kable Bros. band from Mt. Morris. This band always pleases their audience and they did not fail the large crowd Sunday afternoon.

Henry Koster of Dixon and Charles Myers of Oregon were here Monday. Both gentlemen are members of the State Department of Conservation and through their assistance measures have been taken to render timely protection to the fishing and hunting in this vicinity. Douglas D. Stultz was appointed a deputy sheriff and as such official, has complete power to act as a local deputy investigator for the State Department of Conservation.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Patterson and son of Lee Center, Mr. and Mrs. William Maze and family and William Guppli of St. James, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hullah and family, of Temperance Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Butler and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Watson of Franklin Grove, Miss Elsie Spangler of Nachusa, Mrs. Joseph Bell and three sons of Chicago, enjoyed a picnic at Steamboat Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Emmert of Nachusa were Wednesday night visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Senger.

Mystery Mothers Banquet
A most enjoyable occasion to all in attendance, despite the extremely hot weather, was the long anticipated banquet given Thursday evening, by the Mystery Mothers of the Methodist Church, to their daughters. When the plans were laid by the National Executive Committee for various activities of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church nearly a year ago, one of the projects for the younger members was that of the "Mystery Mothers" to be carried out through the local auxiliaries. Several months ago a committee was appointed by the president, Mrs. Elizabeth Durkes and plans were laid for carrying out this delightful and novel scheme in the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society and its daughter organizations, the Standard Bearers and the King's Heralds.

Someone prepared a list of the girls belonging to these two societies, twenty-four in all, the names were drawn by the members of the Missionary and Aid Societies, each woman to be a mother to the girl whose name she drew. The names were kept secret by the mothers, and that's where the mystery came in. As months passed the girls received occasional letters or notes or tokens expressing a personal interest signed "Your Mystery Mother." Of course, there was much guessing of identity, as was perfectly natural, but none of the girls knew absolutely who was her mystery mother until she took her place at the banquet table and read the name on the card next to hers.

On account of repairs being made in the Methodist Church, the affair was held in the commodious and finely equipped basement of the Church of the Brethren, generously loaned by the members. At 6:30 the twenty-four mothers and twenty-four daughters gathered around the delightfully appointed tables which were arranged in a U form. The room was beautiful with summer flowers of gay colors and delightful fragrance arranged by the committee. "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," was sung by the entire group standing, and all took their places and proceeded to enjoy the bounteous repast which had been prepared by the mothers and served by the table committee. A happy hum of conversation accompanied the identification of the various mothers of mystery, and after the good things were disposed of the table committee cleaned the tables and the following program was enjoyed:

Poem, taken from the Woman's Missionary Friend, "What Is A Mystery Mother?" — Mrs. Nellie Stewart.

Toast to the Daughters — Mrs. Elizabeth Durkes.
Toast to the Mothers — Miss Lucille Yocum.

"Why I Like The Standard Bearers" — Miss Helen Yocum, President.

"What I Gained from Attending Camp Inspiration Classes." — Miss Eula Kint.

Recreational Activities — Miss Leona Phillips.

"Why I Like to Belong to the King's Heralds" — Roberta Kint, and Betty Wasson.

Short impromptu talks were given by several mothers, each expressing her pleasure in helping to carry out the "Mystery Mother plan," also her joy in the fine group of lovely girls who were such important part of the novel plan.

An old-fashioned spelling match was the feature entertainment, pitting the mothers against the daughters, the words being pronounced by Mrs. Grace Brecunier. This resulted in the all of the available words having been spelled and Doris Trenholm was still on the floor representing the daughters, while Mrs. Wasson and Mrs. Sunday remained standing for the mothers.

Thus a delightful evening came to an end, and all departed for their homes, feeling that a strong bond had been forged between the women of the church—the mothers—and the daughters who have ever existed before. Each will always retain a personal interest in the girl whose name she drew and in her future achievements, in whatever place life finds for her. The girls under their leaders, Miss Dorothy Durkes for Standard Bearers and Mrs. F. J. Blocher and Miss Esther Ling for the King's Heralds, will know that the women of the church are back of their work and ready to help in every possible way.

The committee which worked so efficiently in carrying the plan to a successful conclusion comprised: Committee on Arrangements: Miss Clara Lahman, Mrs. Mattie Meredith, Miss — Flora Wiker, Mrs. F. J. Blocher.

Tabl Committee: Mrs. Wilbur Brecunier, Mrs. Harry Kint, Mrs. Paul Erickson, Mrs. Cliff Photo Miss Josephine Durkes and Ann's More and Melba Phillips.

Following is the list of the "Mystery Mothers" and their daughters:

Miss Clara Lahman—Jean Maronde.
Mrs. LaForrest Meredith—Helen Yocum.

Mrs. R. N. Johnson — Doris Trenholm.
Mrs. F. H. Hansen — Gretchen Trenholm.

Mrs. Mary Bratton—Ida Warrenfeltz.
Mrs. Clyde Sueck — Eleanor Yocum.

Miss Esther Ling — Muriel Kness.
Mrs. Cecil Gravens — Eleanor Trenholm.

Mrs. Mary Malden — Lucille Buck.
Mrs. James Lincoln — Lucille Yocum.

Mrs. Miller — Joan Fish.
Mrs. Carrie Crawford — Verna Smith.

Mrs. W. L. Sheap — Josephine Kelley.
Miss Ethel Sheap — Marjorie Weldon.

Miss Dorothy Durkes—Eula Kint.
Mrs. Charles Sunday — Leona Phillips.

Mrs. W. L. Moore — Betty Wasson.
Mrs. W. L. Moore — Betty Wasson.

Mrs. Dierdorff—Naoma Maronde.
Mrs. Winn Wasson — Margaret Warrenfeltz.

Mrs. A. J. Stewart — Martha De-lauder.
Miss Elizabeth Runyan — Roberta Kint.

Mrs. F. J. Blocher — Ruth De-lauder.
Miss Flora Wicker — June Conlon.

Mrs. Romanza Greeley, — Nelda Fuller.
JOHN H. ENGEL

John H. Engel was born in Off-weller, Alsace-Lorraine, in France on August 17, 1855, and died in Pensacola, Florida, July 13, 1932, at his son's home.

At the age of fourteen, traveling alone, he left his native country to seek his fortune in America. He first settled in Ashton, Illinois, apprenticing himself out to Mr. Frees to learn the tinners trade.

After learning his trade he came to Franklin Grove, opening a hardware shop to which he added a hardware stock. After following this line of endeavor for several years, he sold out and served as postmaster of Franklin Grove for two terms. At the expiration of his second term of office, he embarked in the dry goods business.

In 1901 he and his wife moved to Chicago and there entered the wholesale saddlery and harness business and afterwards the retail wood and coal business.

In 1921 he and his wife moved to Valparaiso, Florida, where his son was living. This was his home until his death. From 1921 until 1928 he was assistant postmaster and in 1922 when the Valparaiso State Bank was organized, he was elected director and served in this capacity until his resignation tendered in 1930.

On September 1, 1880 he married Mary Louise Klein of Amboy, Illinois, to which union was born one son, Harold J., now residing in Pensacola, Florida.

In 1921 he became a Mason, being raised to the Master Mason degree by Circle Lodge No. 246 at Oak Park, Illinois. After going to Florida, he took the Chapter Degree at Crestview, Florida. He was very proud of his membership in the Masonic order and his life was lived as every true Mason should live.

His life was one of faithful service—always with the interests and welfare of others with no thought of self. All trusts placed with him were faithfully and energetically carried out.

The remains were brought to Franklin Grove, Illinois, for burial. Services were held at the M. E. church with Rev. C. D. Wilson conducting the service. The body was laid to rest in the family burial lot in the Franklin Grove cemetery with the Masons in charge.

The deceased leaves to mourn his passing his widow, Mary L. Engel nee Klein; one son, Harold J.; and two grandchildren, Marion Louise and John C.

The out-of-town friends attending the funeral were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. James McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Buck, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Buck, Mr. and Mrs. George Huber, Mr. and Mrs. John Wenk, Mrs. Rose Howe of Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Porter, Mrs. William Knox and Nelson W. Blocher of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Armstrong and Mr. G. K. Armstrong of Park Ridge; Ted Gaver of St. Paul, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Martin of Minneapolis, Minnesota; Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Reinboth, Mr. and Mrs. E. Antone, Mrs. Anna Klein, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Finch, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tate, Junior Klein, Stella Klein of Amboy; Miss Ida Ware and Ira Ware of Dixon, and Mrs. Frank Swigert of Denver-Cororado.

Farm Boys Notice
Next week when Supt. Leland T. Hanson returns from summer school the farm boys in this community may expect to be visited by him and by Mr. Slothower, with the intention of getting acquainted and organizing the project work for the coming school year.

It is indeed difficult to accomplish a great deal until the regular classes in agriculture have been in session long enough to acquaint the boys with the type of work which is carried out in such department.

In the meantime, any persons having questions pertaining to insects, diseases and other agricultural topics, may leave their names and addresses at the Franklin Reporter office or with Fred C. Gross and I will call at your place and try to diagnose your problem.

L. V. Slothower, Agricultural Instructor.

Presbyterian Church Notes
9:30—Sunday school
7:30—Divine worship with sermon by minister. Theme: "The Test of Experience." The change in the time of service from morning to the evening hour is made because Rev. Thomas will occupy the pulpit in the First Presbyterian church in Dixon at the morning hour. Dr. Young is on his vacation. During the recent illness of Mrs. Thomas at Rochester, Minn., in the absence of Rev. Thomas, Dr. Young occupied the local pulpit. The evening message is important. "Does Jesus stand the test of experience?"

A. E. Thomas, Minister.

Earl Wright Murder Trial
A new trial will be held for the murder of Earl Wright at the camp grounds next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. A young man, Frank Lloyd will be "tried" for murder and the whole setting will deal with the "killing" of a man by his friend, whom it is shown was under the influence of liquor at the time he struck the blow which snuffed out a life, left a widow and a family of fatherless children.

The trial is being put on in cooperation with the Franklin Grove Methodist Assembly and is a means of pointing out a lesson in prohibition law enforcement. Twenty-five ministers and laymen of the district will take part in this trial.

Part of the cast is as follows: Judge—Rev. C. D. Wilson of Ashton.

Sheriff—Rev. Amos Thornburg of Sterling.

Jack Stines—bootlegger—Rev. R. M. Putnam of Rochelle.

Deputy Sheriff—C. C. Hintz of Dixon.

Frank Lloyd—defendant—Robert Dean of Ashton.

Court Reporter to be announced.

Mrs. French, star witness—Mrs. Earl Buck, Franklin Grove.

Mr. Cook, coroner—Rev. J. C. Spencer of DeKalb.

Mrs. Lloyd, defendant's mother—to be announced later.

Mrs. Wright, wife of the deceased—to be announced later.

Council for defense—Nathan R. Johnson of Springfield.

Prosecuting attorney — Rev. Gilbert Stansell of Dixon.

Jury of twelve will be announced later.

Obituary
Clara Margaret Baker, daughter of Andrew and Rebecca Baker, was born November 8, 1880, and departed this life at her home in Franklin Grove, Illinois, July 15, 1932, aged 72 years, 8 months and 7 days.

In 1885, she came to Franklin Grove where she was united in marriage to William C. Naylor, January 21, 1886. To this union were born five children: Charles A. who died in infancy; Mrs. Benton Meese of Blue Earth, Minn.; Mrs. Charles Scheffler and Mrs. George Patterson, both of Dixon, and Harry C. of Ashton. She leaves to mourn her passing: a kind husband, the four children and nine grand-children: two sisters, Mrs. Lena Mickle and Mrs. Elizabeth McKenrick and two brothers, Frank and Emmanuel Baker—all of Geneseo, Pa., also many kind neighbors and friends.

Rest for the toiling hands;

Rest for the anxious brow;
Rest for the weary, wayworn feet;
Rest from all labor now.

Funeral services were conducted in the home Monday afternoon by Rev. O. D. Buck, assisted by Rev. C. W. Lahman of the Brethren church. Interment in the Franklin cemetery.

Fun at the Camp Grounds
About seventy-five girls have been camping this week at the camp grounds. And have they had fun in the swimming pool? Tuesday night was the largest crowd present that has been in the pool at one time. With the three camps of girls and the other from the surrounding towns the pool was full of happy young folks. No better place to swim than at the Franklin pool, and no better place on earth to camp than right at the camp grounds. Plenty of electric lights, plenty of good clean water for use in the camp, and lots of good, clean water in the pool. The rent of a cottage is very cheap when compared to other places and the price at the pool is real cheap. Adults 15 cents and children 10. Think of the hours of clean amusement for that amount of money.

Indianapolis Ex-Chief To Prison
Indianapolis, July 22 —(AP)—Claude M. Worley, former Indianapolis Police Chief, today was sentenced to serve six years in a federal prison and was fined $10,000 on his plea of guilty of a charge of evading income tax payments.

Worley admitted that from 1927 to 1930 his gross income was approximately $5,000 and that he failed to pay the income tax on it. He refused to reveal the source of the income. During two of these years he was Chief of Police at a salary of less than $5,000 a year.

RESTORATION OF OLD SALEM NOW WELL UNDER WAY

Governor Has Approved Plans For Wrestling It From The Past

Springfield, Ill., July 23.—(AP)—Governor L. Emmerson has approved plans that eventually will wrest from the past a faithful reproduction of Old Salem, the village in which Abraham Lincoln lived from 1831 to 1837.

Reconstruction of the shops, cabins and stores as the Emancipator knew them will be well under way this season and will round out a four year program of Lincoln shrine preservation undertaken by the Governor in 1929.

Careful research will make the restoration as historically authentic as possible. Plans and records and remnants of old stone foundations have yielded exact locations of the village buildings near what is now Petersburg, Ill.

Among the first to be reconstructed are Rutledge Inn, where Lincoln spent many hours of relaxation; the Lincoln-Berry store, Clarey's grocery, Offutt's, Herndon's the Crissman Brothers establishment and the Trent Brothers store.

To Restore Road

The Old Salem League, from which the state acquired the park, will furnish the buildings in a style contemporary with the Civil War President.

Old Springfield road will be restored to its appearance of the days Lincoln traversed it.

In striking contrast between the old and the new, the state is contemplating erection of an airport on part of an 80 acre tract adjoining the park for the convenience of Lincoln pilgrims.

And the construction plans, made possible by a $50,000 appropriation of the 57th General Assembly, call for erection of a permanent building to house and protect the original Onstott cooper shop.

It was in the cooper shop that Lincoln, sprawled on the floor, studied Burns, Blackstone, Shakespeare, an English grammar and the Bible in the flickering light of cooper shavings blazing in an old stone fireplace.

Typewriter Doctor

By RUBY DOUGLAS

THE cashier of the Brookville bank looked up from his desk as Sylvia, his competent little stenographer, entered his office humming gaily.

"Why the blime on Monday morning, Miss Sylvia?" he asked.

"The old, old reason—joy in having created something!" she told him.

"Tell me—let me be joyful, too," persisted the cashier.

He had known Sylvia since her childhood. There was a friendly, family acquaintance as well as a business association.

"I will—but you won't like it," Sylvia laughed.

"Oh—conceived the idea of getting married, I suppose."

Sylvia raised her hands in protest. "Not at all. But the effect on you will be just the same. I am going into business for myself."

The cashier listened while the girl unfolded her plan. The idea had come to her on Saturday morning like a flash of lightning from the unknown spaces. She had recognized it at once as an inspiration, and all through the week-end she had been turning it over in her mind until now it was a concrete plan all formulated and ready to put into action.

"Then, you'll be a typewriter doctor, I gather," said the cashier when she had finished her outline.

"Yes—that's an attractive way to call it. There is no one in town who can mend a machine. You know yourself what a nuisance it is when the typewriters here in the office are out of order. We have to send to the city and not only pay the man's expenses but wait till he finds it convenient."

"Oh, I think you have hit upon a splendid idea. I—of course we hate to lose you, but we can't expect a girl with your ability and ambition to go on working for some one else at perhaps twenty dollars a week. Go to it, Miss Sylvia, and we will give you all the support we can."

Thus Sylvia severed her connections with the Brookville bank, but the took with her all the good will of the officers and employees who, one and all, promised to help her to get launched in her new venture.

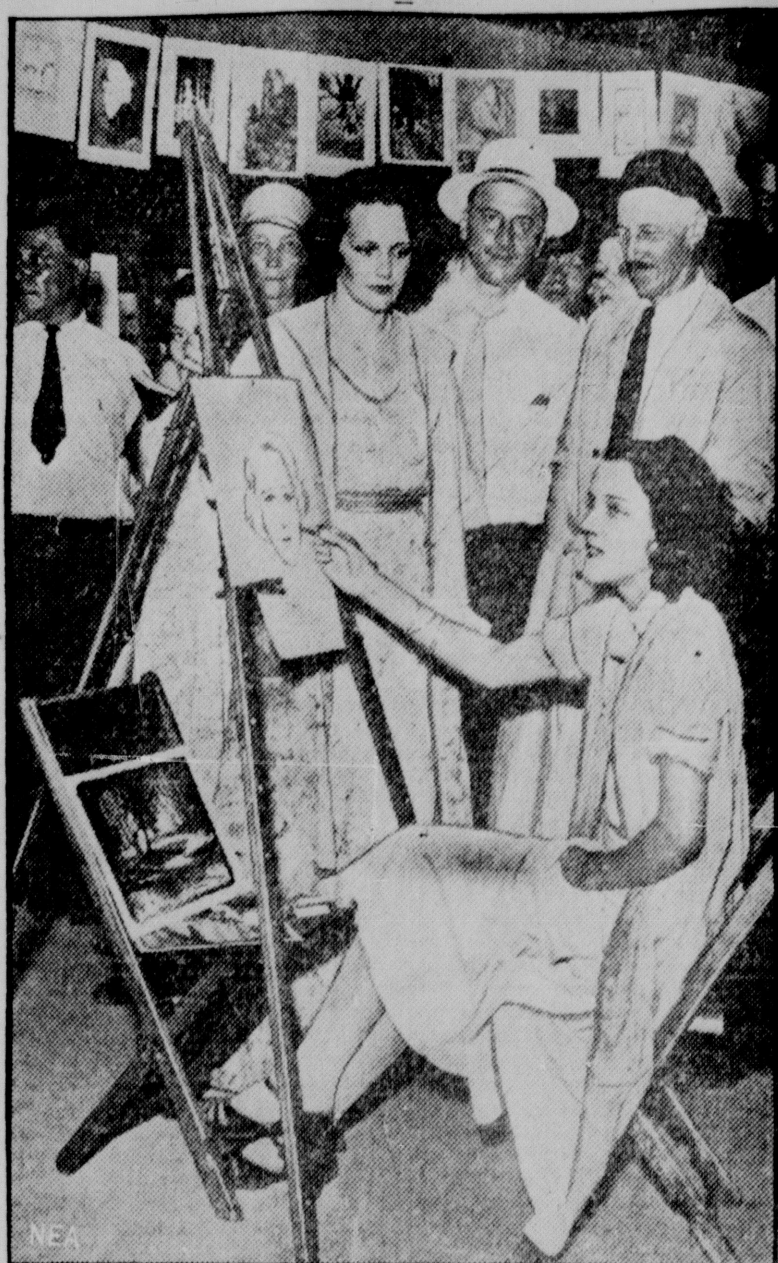

She found a diminutive office on the main street and called herself a "Typewriter Doctor." She had a native mechanical sense and more than a little practical business ability.

It was not long before Sylvia was very busy, and she had found it necessary to make a few trips to the city in order to learn from the makers of various machines a number of intricate little peculiarities of their own typewriters. But she was quick and determined to succeed. Nothing seemed too difficult. She was happy and busy and she was experiencing the thrill that comes with achievement.

One morning a young man appeared in her office.

"Good morning," he said cheerily. The visitor explained that he was a writer and that he lived on a farm outside the limits of the city. His typewriter had become very badly in need of parts and repairs while he was in the middle of some work for a weekly publication. He asked whether he might bring in his

How Artists Curb Depression

When 400 Cleveland, O., artists found their unsold paintings were piling up they organized a curb market and invited the entire city to attend. The result was the largest art sale in the city's history, with more than 12,000 visitors on hand. A feature of the market is shown above, with Vivian Snyder (seated) sketching her sister, Althea, while spectators look on.

machine and perhaps rent one for a few days. That was his problem.

Sylvia assured him that that was her work, and she had several machines on hand that she could let him choose from. For by this time she had not only gone into the business of renting typewriters, but she had acquired the agency of a neat little portable machine and was making handsome commissions on this.

If the young woman recognized another finger of fate pointing the way to her pathway she did not admit it. She confessed to herself that she was glad Mr. Bob Saunders would have to return for his machine. She liked him.

In a day or two, Bob Saunders appeared again. He was buoyantly happy.

"You are a mascot as well as a good typewriter doctor, Miss Bates," he said.

"How do you know?" asked Sylvia, for his machine was not ready.

"I have sold the story I wrote on the rented machine for more than a third again of what I have ever received before from the same people," he told her enthusiastically. "Now I can afford to get the parts."

He remained in the little office longer than was necessary, but Sylvia kept on working. He was lost in admiration of the deft, easy way in which she went about mending this machine, adjusting that one, cleaning another.

It became a habit—watching her. "Could you—perhaps—doctor the heart of typewriting man, Miss—Sylvia?" he asked her one day after many weeks.

"I—might, if it needed it," admitted Sylvia.

"I think if you would—we—we could make a success—together," Bob wrote better than he talked.

But Sylvia managed to understand. And her response was all that he had hoped for.

"And, besides the doctor needs a partner," she told him afterwards.

ROCHELLE NEWS

By ARTHUR T. GUEST

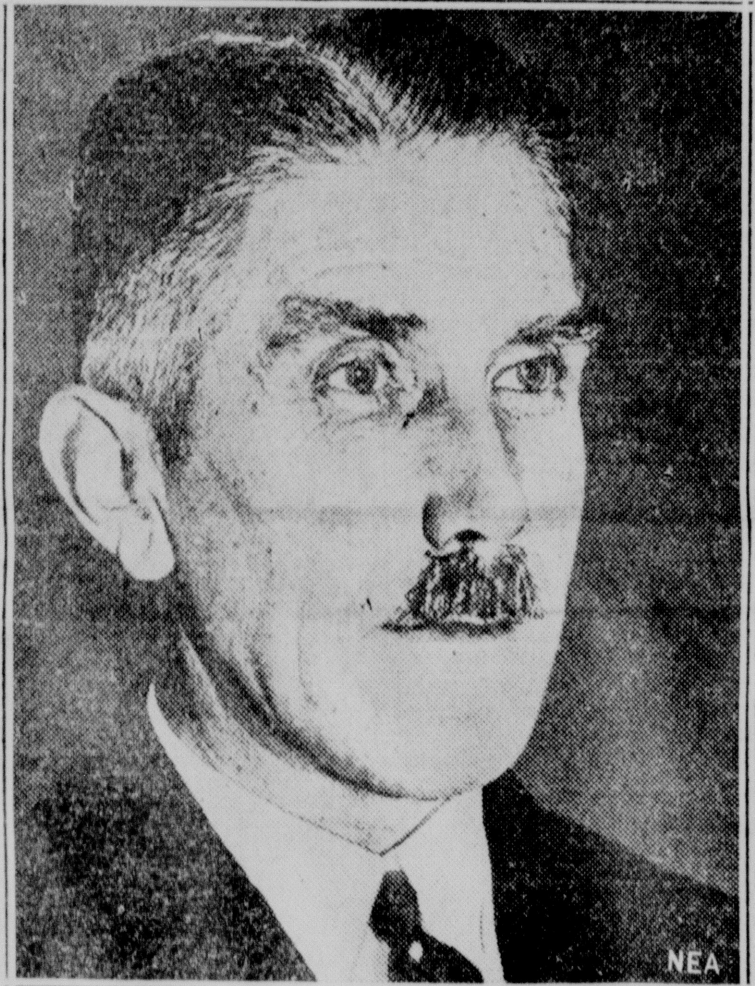

ROCHELLE—Declaring that the farmer was no longer a purchaser but in a similar classification as the unemployed with the single difference that the farmer raised enough to eat, John A. Simpson, national president of the Farmers' Union, drew rounds of applause in his address held in the gymnasium of the township high school here, Thursday evening, July 21st.

Speaking of Congress, Mr. Simpson asserted "they didn't do anything 'they apparently ignored the cause of the disease. The patient has sore feet and they poured oil on his head. This was not a five billion dollar Congress. It was a nine billion dollar Congress. They did just what the administration wanted them to do and nothing more. If they had merely appropriated the sums of three years ago they would have balanced the budget without the present nuisance taxes."

"Suffering makes brothers of us all and the rich are suffering with us. It is time to tell our representatives in Congress that organized wealth can't do it any longer. You can't take from us what our sweat and toil has earned. We can't pay our taxes with eight cent oats and our cent cotton. A tolerably good shirt for a farmer cost $1.60, it contains one pound of cotton and takes the sale of forty pounds of cotton to pay for it."

Referring to the program of the Farmers Union he said that we are at war. We have lost a battle but we will win the war. Senator Norris fought for ten years to put the lame-duck bill through to change the date of the inauguration of the President. The Farmers Union fought for the Frazier bill which if passed would have saved farmers thousands of farms by enabling them to pay off their mortgages at a 1 1/2 per cent interest rate. It failed to pass. It was an emergency measure but was a good bill. However, said Mr. Simpson, we allowed Europe a moratorium on their war debts and Italy and France increased their appropriation for army and navy and we had to follow suit. That was the reason we had to do the strenuous financing to balance the budget.

The second plan stressed by the Farmers Union declared Mr. Simpson is a program to establish a cost of production. The farm leader asserted it was just as sound as the government regulation of transportation and the state regulation of electricity and the telephone.

The Farmers' Union program is "Cost of Production Plus a Reasonable Profit," and which any industry must receive if it continues and develops a sound financial basis with fairness to all.

Mr. Simpson has been in Washington, D. C. most of this year, endeavoring to induce Congress to help restore agriculture, the basic industry of the United States to that place.

The local meeting was arranged through J. A. Davey, secretary of the Creston Union, and the Rochelle Business & Professional Men's Association of which Frank Carney is secretary.

Mr. Simpson will also deliver an address over the National Broadcasting System, during the noon hour, Saturday, July 23, and this will be received at the monstrous farm rally at Princeton, Illinois.

MISSING ANY SOAP

Salt Lake City, Utah — For a while, George A. Green Jr., thought he had stumbled on a "five and ten-cent" store burglars' hang-out. Entering an abandoned miner's cabin in Big Cottonwood canyon, he found in the attic, 64 bars of soap, 38 clothes pins, a woman's silk stocking, three harmonicas, three handkerchiefs, seven knives and forks and several bolts. It turned out, however, that the "burglars" were pack rats which must have stolen the loot from nearby campers and transported it.

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington —Perhaps there is no better evidence of the wear and tear to which senatorial nerves were subjected during the past months than the heated and at times bitter personal clashes on the floor in the closing hours of the sessions just passed.

Violent disagreements between Senators are nothing new. Scarcely a day passes while they are in session but that someone, somehow gets into a tangle with a colleague.

But it is a rare occurrence for them to engage in personalities. No matter how worked up they may become or how loud they shout at each other, there is always that feeling that they have respect for one another and a courteous demeanor.

But there were times in the last few hours of this past session when those watching from the galleries had their doubts. There were flare-ups and clashes that made one wonder at times just how they would end.

FRAYED NERVES—

There was the time, for example, when Joe Robinson of Arkansas turned on the portly, bespectacled Hatfield of West Virginia, shouting to him to quit interrupting—that his interruptions were "childish" and based either on ignorance or incompetence.

Hatfield became so incensed that he left the chamber, berating Robinson in no uncertain terms. The West Virginia Senator was trying to get an amendment to the conference report of the relief bill, which the Democratic leader insisted was too late.

The diminutive but scrappy Carter Glass of Virginia bawled at "Pudding Jim" Davis of Pennsylvania during the same afternoon in truly terrifying fashion. Glass, feared by all when he arises in his wrath, pounced on Davis with "everything he had" for insisting that he was prepared to stay in Washington all summer to see that the Congress did the right thing for the working man.

"Then why hasn't the Senator gotten up here and assert his rights before?" shouted Glass.

But the classic was Jim Couzens' tie-in with Jim Watson when he thought the Hoosier Senator was trying to pull a "parliamentary trick" on the Senate.

Couzens is about as vitriolic in his speech and as merciless as any Senator when he becomes angry. He fears no one, cares not where his shot fall. He learned the art of dressing people down in his celebrated controversy with "Uncle Andy" Mellon over the matter of a fortune in tax refunds.

Watson and Vice President Curtis, too, felt the lash of Couzens' tongue. It found its mark like the crack of a whip.

Rogged nerves, fatigue, exasperation—those were the reasons for the outbursts. If those Senators had been forced to stay much longer wrangling as they had been doing for months, there's no telling what might have happened.

A theory of S. Vesselsky who is connected with the Astronomical Institute of Moscow, teaches that many of the comets that appear in the night sky may be the product of eruptions from the surface of the planet Jupiter.

CUBS 'COUSINS' TO PIRATES IN RECENT BATTLES

Hornsby's Men Is Easiest Team In League For Bucs To Defeat

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Where there have been league champions—notably the Philadelphia Athletics of last season who ran up their winning percentage over the weaker clubs while getting no better than an even break against their leading adversaries, there can be no such charge against the Pittsburgh Pirates if they capture the current National League race.

The Pirates, in fact, have done their best work since they started their sensational climb a month ago against the team generally regarded as their strongest rival, the Chicago Cubs.

In their last nine engagements with Rogers Hornsby's club, the Pirates have turned in seven victories, more than sufficient to account for their three and one-half game lead over the field today. Only one club has been able to beat the Pirates up to this point. The fourth-place Phillies, with seven victories in eleven bouts with the leaders, have the distinction.

George Gibson's men demonstrated their ability to beat the Cubs for the fourth straight time yesterday with a 3 to 1 victory at Pittsburgh. Steve Swetonic did the pitching, hanging up his eleventh victory against two defeats, and assisted in the batting chores.

The National League's only other contribution to a dull day along the baseball front presented the Phillies in a 9 to 5 victory over Brooklyn.

Mickey Cochrane's robust hitting featured the Athletics' 8 to 4 win over Washington in the American League's lone attraction. The slugging catcher tagged all the bases with a home run, a triple, a double and a single, driving in three runs.

TAYLOR'S HELP MAKES WARNEKE GREAT PITCHER

Veteran Catcher Discovers Kid's Big Weakness Early

Chicago (AP)—The skeptics have been definitely silenced in the case of Lon Warneke vs. All Comers.

One by one, seven teams of the National League have been beaten by this 23-year-old sensation in the Chicago Cubs' pitching staff.

Now he's headed for the goal of all top-flight pitchers—20 victories or more in a single season.

With the season just past the half-way mark, he had rung up 14 wins against three losses—this lanky hill billy from Mt. Ida, Ark., who has risen from class D baseball to major league stardom in three years.

Even that record has abolished all claims that Warneke was "just lucky" to gain the spotlight early this year by running up five victories in a row before he was stopped.

With the same determination that he evidenced by pedaling a bicycle more than 20 miles to report for his first tryout in organized baseball, Lon has steamed down to justify Manager Rogers Hornsby's

What Averages Of Big Leagues Show This Week

New York, July 23—(AP)—The great inter-league slugging duel seems to have settled down to the basis on which Philadelphia's ace, Jimmie Fox, of the Athletics and Chuck Klein of the Phillies intend to fight it out all summer.

Fox got some aid from a teammate, Al Simmons, in improving the American League's position this week while Paul Waner of Pittsburgh, leading batter of the National League, did his best to help Klein along.

Simmons won in piling up 106 runs to lead both leagues in scoring gave the junior circuit a slight edge in the records, for Fox's batting average of .368, through yesterday's games, was the best in either league although four points below his mark of a week ago. Jimmie continued to top the majors with 39 home runs and 120 runs batted in while Ben Chapman of the New York Yankees was far ahead in base stealing. Klein gave the National League the lead with 140 hits and his 14 triples tied the mark of Buddy Myer, American League leader. Paul Waner continued to lead them all with 39 doubles.

Klein led his league in five departments and Fox had four firsts and a second. The various high marks were:

Runs—Simmons, 106, Klein 101, Fox, 99; hits—Klein 140, Fox, 135, Paul Waner, 133, Simmons, 132; runs batted in—Fox, 120, Simmons 98, Klein 91; doubles—Paul Waner, 39, Worthington, Braves, 33; Porter, Indians, 31; stolen bases—Chapman 25; Blue, White Sox, 14, P. Waner, Stripp, Brooklyn, and Frisch, Cardinals, 13.

Behind Fox, there was a real race for the American League hitting honors and after yesterday's games the contestants lined up as follows: Walker, Tigers, .339; Brown, Senators, .338; Burns, Browns, .337; Jolley, Red Sox, .334; Averill, Indians, .333; Cramer, Athletics, .331; Simmons, Athletics, .330; Gehrig, Yankees, .325; Dickey, .323.

The rest of the National League's "first ten" was Hurst, Phillies, .355; O'Doul, Brooklyn, .346; Traynor, Pirates, .344; Lombardi, Reds, .340; Ott, Giants, .335; Stephenson, Cubs, .333; V. Davis, Phillies, .330; and L. Waner, Pirates, .329.

Vernon Gomez, the clever Castilian of the New York Yankees, continued to lead both leagues in pitching with 16 victories and four defeats although his teammate, Johnny Allen, equalled his average by winning eight games and losing two. Steve Swetonic of Pittsburgh led in the National League race with eleven victories and two defeats against 14 and 3 for Lonnie Warneke of Chicago.

contention that he is a great pitcher.

Last year, when Warneke was just a second-stringer with the Cubs, he wore out three pairs of pants on the bench. This year he has been wearing out the dispositions of opposing managers.

For his success Lon has to thank not only Hornsby, who gave him his chance, but Zach Taylor, Cub catcher, who corrected his biggest weakness.

"Look over this kid carefully," Hornsby told Taylor in spring training this year, "and see if you can't improve his control."

In one day Taylor had spotted Warneke's trouble.

"Every time you pitch you drop your head," Zach told him. "Cut out that habit and follow the ball through."

Warneke's control had been improving ever since.

Merchants Take One-Sided Game

The Merchants defeated the Ideal Cafe last evening in a slug-fest which proved one sided, by a score of 11 to 3, the Merchants collecting 17 hits. Pitney was touched for an even dozen hits but with excellent fielding the score was held to three runs.

Here's High Mileage

Driving an auto through the air across a river may sound incredible, but take a look at this motorized suspension bridge over the Pudding river near Canby, Ore. Two cables, each 120 feet long, furnish the roadbed; tires are replaced by rubber bands around the rim to give traction; and a third cable above with a pulley gives the car stability. C. W. West, at the wheel, is kept busy carrying passengers back and forth. He claims 1500 trips on a gallon of gas.

Hooks and Slides

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

Another country heard from! This time it is France. Ah, me! What would the life of a sports writer be if he didn't have a couple of good foreign correspondents to keep him posted.

"The tricolor of France will fly proudly over the Olympic stadium in Los Angeles," writes Mr. Minot Saunders from Paris. "But there are no very high hopes here that it will be hoisted triumphantly on the victory staff."

Now that is really too bad, Minot. I had hopes that France would take enough time off from reparations problems to gather up a fine bunch of athletes. But they didn't, according to Mr. Saunders. He further writes:

"The French team is particularly weak, judging from performances, and if a third place is taken in any event, it will be considered quite a conquest. Our experts have no illusions about the difficulties the French athletes will encounter, especially in view of the brilliant performances registered by Americans during the past few weeks. However, they hold that some of the Frenchmen have possibilities and that the unexpected might happen as it has in other Olympic games."

WHAT! NO SPRINTERS!—From Mr. Saunders, I learn that France is so weak in the sprints that not a single man on the team will be entered in anything under the 400 meters. Not one man was produced in the final trials who could qualify, or even rate his passage to Los Angeles.

"France is strongest in the middle-distances," Saunders continues. "Both Sera Martin and Jean Keller are capable of good performances at 800 meters and 1500 meters, but Martin doesn't look so good today as he did two or three years ago when he was hitting world record speeds. If he can get back to his old form, he may surprise a surprise."

Roger Rochar, is picked by many as the star of the team because of his 1932 performances. He is best at 5000 meters. A youngster, Marcel Moulines, is on the team for the 400 meters. He has not reached championship form, but the selection body figured the competition will prove helpful for him."

STRONG IN FENCING—In some of the other competitions, France expects to be more conspicuous, especially in fencing. According to Mr. Saunders, there will be keen disappointment at home if the French team fails to take the bulk of honors in this noble old sport.

"Cattiau is the outstanding personality on the French fencing team," writes Saunders. "He will be seen in both the foil and sword events. He is a worthy successor to Lucien Godeard, one of the greatest of modern times who has retired from competition. Even Ado Nadi, famous Italian professional, doesn't see a chance of Cattiau being beaten at Los Angeles."

"But the great regret of all French athletes with regard to the Olympics," continues Saunders, "is that Jules Ladoumègue, spectacular runner from Marseilles, was not chosen for the team. Ladoumègue holds claims to world records in the mile, the 1,000, 2,000 and 3,000 meter runs. There's no disputing his amazing performance during the past year. He got into difficulties over expense transactions and after a heated controversy was disqualified by the French A. A. Ladoumègue was looked upon as the one man who could bring glory to France at Los Angeles."

Shoemakers Shake Up Their Line-Up

Manager Raymond Hanley of the William B. Johnson Shoe Co., baseball team will alter his lineup making several changes for the game Sunday afternoon with the Paw Paw Independents at the Independent Field. He has not definitely decided who would be sent to the mound for the Shoemakers, but the fans are assured a good game and a large delegation of fans will be present from Paw Paw. The game will start promptly at 2:30.

England's longest golf course is Prince's at Sandwich. It has a declared length of 6998 yards. A good player will walk about four miles in playing one round of the course.

DIXON GOLFERS THIRD IN SEMI-CENTURY MATCH

Seven From This City In Tournament Held At Freeport Club

Seven Dixon golfers, members of the Dixon Country Club, participated in the annual semi-century tournament at Freeport Thursday and Friday of this week. There were about 90 golfers in attendance representing eleven northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin clubs. The competition was keen from start to finish, the clubs finishing as follows:

Freeport	841
Ingersoll, Rockford	875
Dixon	876
Sterling	895
Morrison	905
Belvidere	928
Beloit	951
Princeton	958
Monroe	960

Low gross score was won by Gossinn of Freeport, 162, with Oliver Rogers of Dixon second with 163. Low net was won by Dr. M. J. Smith of Rockford, with 158 the runner-up being Northridge of Freeport with 161, he winning on cut from McCausland and Stilson.

The class A division was won by Emerick with 169. Armstrong and Leland were tied for runner-up, the former winning with a 171.

In class B, McCausland was the winner with a 161 score. Harry Roe of Dixon being the runner-up with 163.

Younglove won a tie with 166 in class C from Stewart.

Stillson won the class D with a 161. Middlekauff and Fletcher being tied as runners-up. Middlekauff being declared the winner.

Class E was won by Barrett with a 164. Lane being the runner-up with a 172 score.

Potter was the winner of the class F with 164. Horner being the runner-up with 174.

The Dixon team was composed of George Burch, Harry Lager, Oliver Rogers, Mark C. Keller, H. C. Pitney, H. A. Roe, and E. B. Raymond. Roe won first and Raymond second in their age classes.

The tournament next year will be held at Beloit, the third week in July. The Beloit club will entertain the Wisconsin state tournament on the fourth week in July which insures in ideal course for the semi-century players on their visit.

Consistency marked the efforts of these young pay-as-you-play golfers in the national public links championship at Shawnee Country Club, Louisville. They were among the lowest of 32 players who passed the 36-hole qualifying test for the match play that will determine the 1932 public links champion. Roy E. Wiggins, left, of Oakland, Calif., twice toured the course in the same figures, getting 73's to post a 36-hole card of 146. Don Obyran, center, of Louisville, duplicated Wiggins' feat, and Tab Boyer, right, of Portland, Ore., carded a 73-74-147.

ONLY A THIRD OF FUND FOR U. S. TEAM ON HAND

American Olympic Board Hopes To Continue Collections

Los Angeles, July 23—(AP)—The tempo of the tenth Olympic games preliminaries activities was speeded today with a number of contributing conditions magnifying the fact the games are only one week away.

Finland planned bold steps to save Paavo Nurmi's amateur status. Percy Williams quietly injected himself into the sprint picture, prepared to defend his two 1928 titles. The American Olympic committee sat down to recount its far from adequate team funds. Brazil team officials were figuring out means of converting coffee into cash.

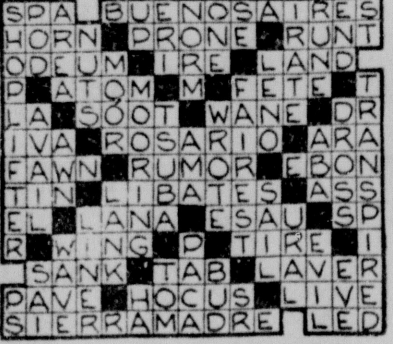

More of the world's athletes poured into the city, and crowds jostled about the ticket windows. The Finnish Olympic delegation expects to publish its correspondence with the International Amateur Athletic Federation. That according to the Finns, acted without power to suspend Nurmi on charges of excessive traveling fees.

for LOVE or MONEY by H.W. CORLEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONA MORAN who supports her mother, invalid father, little sister, KITTY, and a few do-well brother, BUD, is determined to marry for wealth and position.
She is receptionist for a Wall Street law firm and in the office she meets HARRY TOWNSEND, a young man of wealth and social prominence. She refuses Harry's dinner invitation, telling him she never makes engagements with clients or employers.

MONA's brother announces that her childhood sweetheart, STEVE SACCARELLI, grandson of the ice and coal dealer, has returned home. Steve disappeared three years earlier and it was rumored he was in prison though Mona never believed this.

She meets him on her way to work one morning. Steve is handsome, well dressed and well mannered. Mona is not anxious to renew the friendship but agrees to dine with Steve. Later in the day
she meets HARRY TOWNSEND, a young man of wealth and social prominence. She refuses Harry's dinner invitation, telling him she never makes engagements with
clients or employers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER IV

AFTER leaving Mona at the office
Steve headed his car northward with no plan except to go home until time to call for her at five.

His hand lay on the wheel mechanically, the car responding to his slightest touch with a sensitive race horse. He had not been to bed.
Three years of loneliness coupled with that sense of security provided by sufficient money honestly come by had added a piquant flavor to
New York's night life.

Before Steve had gone away he had seen only the outskirts of that life. Today he could take part and fling foolish gold with the others.

And Steve wanted to show Mona this New York to which he had ascended. He had acquired an ease of manner, a sense of dress, an air.

It stirred his vanity to be able to show Mona the new Steve, to walk on Broadway to the Park Avenue way.

It was true, as he had told Mona, that before he had disappeared he had been involved with gangsters, innocently enough at first, had driven what the tabloids refer to as the "hold-up car," though as far as Steve knew he had been involved in no gun-play.

It seemed to be easy money. All Steve had to do was pick up his fare as prearranged, drive to a certain hide-out and collect his split.

That the gang held out on him frequently made little difference. What he received was velvet and his risk was slight.

When he came to realize that the gang which hired him was not bound on pleasure parties, that the cash they handed him in future though generous amounts was offered usually after newspapers had printed accounts of this robbery or that along the jewel centers of the town Steve tried to pull out.

He was approached carefully and warned. Leave town and they'd get him. Or let the cops get him for a stretch at Sing Sing.

"You haven't anything on me, buddies," Steve insisted.
"Yeah? Tell that to the judge and see what it gets you!" They spoke glibly of accessory before and after the fact, of receiving stolen goods (this consisted of carrying the swag, unapprised, to the fences) of "raps" taken by innocent members of their organization.

Oh, yes, they had plenty on him.
So Steve perceived.

"Green," the gang called him.
"Green," replied Steve. But privately he told himself, "Getting less green!"

It happened that Steve, back in the days before his association with "the gang" had often had as passenger in his cab a young man about town whose wavering footsteps could not always make the distance to his club at one o'clock in the morning.

Cruising about the supper club zone in that dull period just before the theater crowds had been cared for, Steve formed the habit of picking up this passenger and dropping him safely at his club entrance.

This service was the beginning of a friendship. The night after the next jewel robbery had blazoned itself in morning and evening papers, Steve, driving idly past the club, had seen his old friend in an honest and upright condition wagging a finger into the traffic for a taxi. Steve drew to the curb and the young man got into the cab.

He was going to South America that evening, the passenger said.
To make conversation Steve announced he would like to go too.
"Come on!" The invitation was spontaneous and heartfelt. "Here's the idea. Wind up any business you may

NEW METHODS IN SELLING BY MAIL ADOPTED

Montgomery Ward's Catalogue Introduces Innovations

During the past several months, the eyes of the business world have been attracted to Montgomery Ward & Co. With the appointment of Sewell L. Avery as the new president of the company, many things began to happen. The organization was materially changed and new blood from the outside was brought in to work out the principles and policies that Mr. Avery was laying down.

With the mailing of the Fall Catalogue to millions of customers this week, it is interesting to see what the new policies have done to this book, which has been issued twice a year for over sixty years. Anyone familiar with catalogue making knows that it takes more than a few months to make any substantial changes in its make-up.

However, even allowing that the time has been short, there are many interesting indications in it of the new attitude. The first and most radical departure from conventional Mail Order Methods is the departmentizing of the Catalogue. Instead of finding baby shoes, for example, with rubber boots, baby bottles with cough remedies and high chairs with kitchen cabinets, as has been the custom for more than half a century, the customer now finds everything for the baby in one section of the book. Likewise the sportsman, farmer and the housewife—all find the things they need, gathered together just as they would in a big department store.

This is a simple and fundamental idea that has occurred to many users of Catalogues, but in the minds of dyed-in-the-wool Mail Order men it involved too many problems to be accomplished. It is believed that the suggestive selling developed by this new method of cataloguing will be of material benefit, in addition to the greater ease and convenience of ordering from the new style book. The 40,000 items in the big 600-page book have been grouped in eleven departments. The new plan is said to have so simplified Catalogue buying that the traditional Catalogue Index may eventually be eliminated.

The book opens with a frank statement of policies, which includes a declaration that selling effort will be confined to facts devoid of confusing or exaggerated claims. "The statements we make about this merchandise are not the manufacturer's selling claims. They are facts that we ourselves can guarantee," is one of the declarations. And it is a fact that the exaggerations and ballyhoo that were so familiar to an era of business now past, are not to be found on its pages.

"The economic principles of selling by mail," said Mr. Avery "are as sound and acceptable today as when this business was started sixty years ago. The potential market is greater than ever, but in many ways selling by mail has not kept pace with the times. We are adapting the sound basic Mail Order ideas to modern conditions. Improvements in the mechanical processes used in producing Catalogues now permit a remarkable degree of flexibility in keeping up with price and style trends. The prices in this new Catalogue very accurately reflect the current low market levels for good merchandise. Prices as compared with those in our Fall and Winter Catalogue of 1931 will average from 18 to 25 per cent lower, with reductions in some instances as great as 35 per cent.—Adv.

ALLIES ADVANCE

On July 23, 1918, victorious American and French troops crossed the Marne along a front of several miles and seized the towns of Jaulgonne, Buzancy, Marfaux and Mailly-Raineval.

French forces also pushed the Germans back more than two miles near Montdidier, and made important gains near Rheims.

German losses since July 15 were estimated at more than 180,000, of which 40,000 were prisoners, by allied experts.

The British armored cruiser Marmona was sunk, either by a mine or a submarine. Ten members of the crew were reported missing.

THAT progressive cities build for future greatness. Cities where the people as a whole show interest in civic affairs especially those improvements which affect the general appearance of their city for all time to come, move ahead fast.

It is one thing for a city to TALK progressiveness and another to BE progressive. Experience has proved that cities who really do worth while things are the cities whose citizens preach cooperation and practice what they preach.

Cities that have an attractive appearance have much public pride, which instills in its citizens a strong desire to make it progress faster.

Constructive cooperation is an index of a city's prosperity. It shows confidence in the future.

Cities that keep ahead in the march of progress are the cities that reach out and keep doing big and better things.

Rochelle—Mrs. Elida Fowler, resident of this community for seventy-six years, will celebrate her one hundredth birthday tomorrow at the Fowler home near Flagg Center. Elida Smith Fowler came to her present home in April, 1885 from Horsehead, N. Y., soon after her marriage. The last of a family of six children, Mrs. Fowler has reached an age never attained by any of her family. Her father died at 50, mother at 40 a twin sister soon after birth, and all others except a brother at 75, have died early in life.

Her children who celebrate with her are Mrs. Clark M. Myers, Rochelle; a son, Eli, 59, a son Garrett, 75, and Martha, who resides with her at home; Mrs. George Owen, of Kings, and Welling, residing in Iowa.

Mrs. Fowler has voted only once for Hughes when he was running for President against Wilson.
